More Details

The screenshot shows a website advertisement for 'oneclick Cover Letters'. At the top left is a photo of a smiling woman. The main heading is 'oneclick Cover Letters' in orange. Below it, the text reads 'Get instant cover letters that get you attention and interviews!'. To the right is the 'resume dictionary' logo. A navigation bar includes links for 'How to Write a Cover Letter', 'OneClick Cover Letter Help', 'Follow Up Letters', and 'Cover Letters'. Below the navigation bar are social media buttons for 'Like' and 'Share', with a note that '1,904 people like this. Sign Up to see what your friends like.' The main content area features a quote: 'Only 1 in 579 resumes gets an interview. Your cover letter can make or break you.' This is followed by a paragraph: 'STOP writing cover letters the hard way! STOP scratching your head trying to figure out what to say and then wondering why they don't call you...'. The next line is a bold red headline: '"Now You Can Instantly Create Brilliantly Crafted and Customized Cover Letters With A Single Mouse Click So Powerful They Can Make Your Resume Stand Out And Your Phone Ring Off the Hook For Interviews...'. Below this is another bold red line: 'No Head Scratching Writing Required!'. The final line is 'Guaranteed Interviews!' with a red button in the middle that says 'Click Link Below' with arrows pointing down.
